With its effortless formality Empire is particularly well suited for the emerging new-traditionalist approach to interior styling. Ornamental medallions woven in meticulous detail are delicately balanced by floral embellishments for a refined, yet approachable aesthetic. Empire's palette of eleven feels at once current and collected, layering modern hues with heritage colors borrowed from generations past. The release of Empire marks the culmination of Burch's Modern Heirloom series - a collective of classically informed, contemporary colored materials linking past to present.
